Give us a call nember No. 50 Fourth street.

THE undersigned adopts this method of tendering to the physicians of this city, and the public generally, as asknowledgements for the very liberal patronage they have seen proper to bestew upon him since he tocated imself on the Southwest corner of Grayson and Twelfth wreet, and he confidently hopes that by careful and unstated extention to business, not only to merit, but also to serive a prolonged continuance of the same. Such arrangements have been made as will enable him, not only to be supplied at all times with fresh and genwise Drugs and Hodicines, but also to dispose of them on terms as associable as they can be obtained elsewhere.

He would further state that he has secured the services of Mr. Vandrept, a native of Belgium whose qualificates as Chemist and as Apothecary, are acknowledged to sempetant judges, to be far above mediocrity.

This knowledge of the German language is sufficient for ill business transactions. ar attention given to compounding prescription s, day or night.

We hardly know how to wish our friends a "merry Christmas," only we intend to have a free and joyous day. It is a holiday and we mean to enjoy it to the full extent. The holy Sabbath of the year comes but once in a twelve month, and it must be a sad thing if we cannot observe it. There is something so sweet and consoling in the impressiveness of religion founded upon the revelation of Him who has given this day its holiness to which even the weak and foundering must appeal, and the strong man made after "the image of his Maker" feels the necessity of bowing in humble supplication. Give us Ohristmas cheer-our warm firesidesus all be friends to-day.

It seems that the excitement concerning the negro insurrectionary movement has not entirely subsided in the Green river country. The Hopkingville Mercury says:

The extremely cold weather, coming on us of a sudden, has not been enough to keep our citizens from Mozart Hall, where they have been entertained to the highest extent, for the Hall was thoroughly warmed, and every one seemed to participate in the general delight, in witnessing these unequaled pictures.

A FANTASY.

BY P. W. M. This told somewhere in Eastern story
That those who love once bloomed as flowers
On the same stem, amid the glory.
Of Eden's green and fragrant bowers,
And that, though parted here by Fase.
Yet when the glow of life has ended,
Each soul again shall find its mate,
And in one bloom again be blended.

If this be true, how sweet the vision

Which rancy sometime weaves forme,
That thou, and those bowers elysian;
My lovely thouser mate will be,
And Oh! how oil, when time and distance,
Perchave, may part the from my side,
Will I repine for that existence
Where Fate can ne'er our lives divide.

the four persons present. Those four persons consisted of a tall, large, strong, hard-featured, muscular man, of middle age—a small, pale, sharp-featured, thin lipped woman of forty—a long, lank, awkward youth of twenty, with pecked face, flaxen hair, light blue eyes, and freckled skin—and a plump, fair, brown-haired, hazel-eyed, comely maiden of

'Why, Eden Stanforth, be you back already? who on earth thought of seeing you here to-night?" said the elderly female who had opened the door, which she still beld with one hand, while with the other she took the hand of the young horseman.

For young he was and handsome, possessing fine, manly form, in the full flush and vigor of expressive, and with waving locks, rolling back from a broad, high, smooth forehead, and clustering around healthy-hued cheeks and temples.

to listen to the reply. 'First,' said Eden Stanforth, 'do you know that war has been declared between our country and Great Britain? 'No!' exclaimed the uncle of the young mes-

'Such is the fact,' pursued Eden hurriedly; war was formally proclaimed by our govern-ment against Great Britain on the 18th of last June-though it is said that when the imbecile, treachorous and cowardly old Hull marched ough here on the last of the same month, he did not know it.'

'Eden, what do you mean by speaking in ich disrespectful terms of General Hull?' inquird the brother of the young man's father. 'Would that my words were daggers to let out his heart's blood!' cried Eden fiercely. 'O! woe the day that such a man was appointed to command such a gallant band as he has basely petrayed and sacrificed!'

'Eden, speak! explain!' demanded the uncle, who was a man of a few words. He has surrendered Detroit, his army, and all the forts, garrisons and military stores within its jurisdiction, into the hands of the British, without so much as permitting a single blow to e struck in our defence.' 'You don't tell me so !' exclaimed the elder stanforth, turning slightly pale, and involuntarily clenching his hand.

Mercy on us,' cried Mrs. Stanforth, clasping ner hands in alarm; 'what will this do to us, 'Put us to flight, aunt, to save our lives!'

cried the young man excitedly. 'The horde of Indians, collected under the leadership of Tecumseh, having now no check at the North, will soon be upon these defenceless borders, to slaughter, pillage and bu.n, and lay waste the ountry-even now I fear they are on their way

'This is indeed startling news!' said the uncle, nusingly; 'war declared and Hull surrendered! Eden, you havn't made any mistake?" 'No, uncle-no mistake-for even I was one of the parties surrendered.'

'You, Eden-you?' 'Yes, uncle. 'Tell me all about it as quick as you can!' said he uncle.

'I must be very brief, then, uncle,' replied one to the other, in terror: 'here, run over to our house, and tell the news, and set them at making preparations to leave at once—say I will be with their late fright and apprehensions for the fu-

'What! without firing a gun?' cried the uncle,

'Yes, uncle, without one single, solitary discharge of our rifles and muskets!'

'The old scoundrel!' exclaimed the uncle.

'He deserves hanging!' cried the young man 'Is he a traitor, or coward, Eden?' Both, I think! Oh, uncle, just fancy the feelings of the brave American soldiers at being thus basely deprived of their arms, by their own General, and surrendered prisoners of war to a foe they could easily have conquered!" 'The man's mad, or else we've got a successful Benedict Arnold among us!' said the other,—

'How did you get away, Eden?' 'The British General gave the volunteers liber ty to return home, but took old Hull and the regulars over to Canada. As soon as I got per-mission to leave, I made a search for my horse, which I found in the possession of an orderly sergeant, who returned him to me for a small compensation. I then bought back my rifle, mounted my beast, and here I am, happily in time to give you all warning of danger.

'This isn't a safe place, just now, that's a fact,' said the uncle, with a serious shake of his head. There is danger, uncle, go which way we may; As the setting sun of the 20th of August, 1812, threw a broad sheet of burnished gold over the western heavens, from the horizon almost to the western heavens, from the horizon almost to the zenith, a horseman, in a green hunting frock, with a rifle resting on the pommel of his saddle, and tightly grasped with one hand, while the other held the reins of his panting and foamcovered beast, dashed swiftly through the great, flag, it will be far better than falling into the hands of the savages.'

- 'And our horses, cattle, hogs and sheepwhat of them?' queried the uncle, seriously.
'We shall have to leave them to the tender mercies of the wild beasts and savages,' answered Eden, with a sigh; 'if we can even save our ousehold goods and ourselves, it is all we can hope to do at present.' 'You're right, Eden,' pursued the uncle, in a tone of decision, addressing his young kinsman; 'you're right, and there's no help for it. It'll ertainly be best for us to take to the barge and drop down into Lake Brie. Now hasten to get your father, mother and sister ready for the voyage. Come, Esther—come, Peleg—come, Mabel-let's set to work at once

'I will soon rejoin you,' said Eden. And hurrying out, he mounted his horse, and ode quickly away.

CHAPTER II.

THE MIDNIGHT DEPARTURE. A little before midnight of the same day story opens, a party of eight persons, fouring either sex, were slowly and silently movthe across a small opening to the right bank of our Maumee, where a clumsily built barge of midlling size was fastened to the shore. this party of eight were laden with different household articles, which they deposited among umerous others of a similar character, which had been previously brought off to the boat from their dwelling; and being now all collected on board, and having with them all they intended taking from their deserted homes, they forth with loosed the boat and pushed out into the middle of the stream, where, for the time being, it was allowed to float quietly down on the bos om of the current. This party, as the reader has doubtless conjectured, consisted of our young hero, Eden Stanforth, and his father, mother, sister, uncle, and sunt, and Mabel Duncan, and Peleg White. Having floated a short distance down the stream, Eden took counsel with his uncle and father, and it was decided the boat should be brought to an anchor some little distance from the shore, and that one should remain on the watch till morning-when, should there be no signs of the enemy, a warning message could be sent to the inhabitants above, which, in their haste to effect their own safety, our voyagers had neglected to do at first.

I take shame to myself,' said Eden in a whisper, for it was not deemed prudent to speak in a early manhood, with an open, frank, honest, in-early manhood, with an open, frank, honest, in-telligent countenance, an eye clear, bright and loud tone, lest a lurking enemy might hear the sound, and so be attracted to their place of con-cealment: 'I take shame to myself that I did not ride to Major Spofford's and give him warning, 'I hoped to surprise you, aunt?' he said quickly, as he pushed in and closed the door; 'for had I failed in doing so, I fear you would soon have received a surprise of a more terrible nature.'

'It ought to have been done, Eden, replied his to-night.

'No, my son, no; you've done enough to need rest. Two days on horseback, and only one night's fitful sleep on the bare ground! Go and senger, starting up from his seat: 'Is such the lie down at once, and trust your uncle Amos to watch the boat.'

'Eden did not require much urging to induce him to seek rest for the night; and speak a few quieting words to his mother, sister, aunt, and Mabel-all of whom were more or less nervous and excited—he threw himself down on a loose pile of bedding, and was soon fast asleep.

Not so with the others, who were not so fati-gued as Eden, and upon whom the exciting news had produced an effect calculated to banish sleep for several hours. At the request of David Stan-torth, the father of Eden, who had been for years an invalid, and whose constitution was so broken and impaired as to render him unable to bear any great fatigue, they all repaired to their places of rest, where they conversed in whispers for a long time, conjecturing as to the future, and narrating occurrences of the past, till each was prepared to hear an Indian in every sound. or see one in every shadow or in everything hav-presenting in a tangible shape the objects of their ears, they all at last gradually yielded to the requirements of nature; and even Peleg White, the most frightened one of the party, fell into a doze and began to dream.

Suddenly he started up, with a wild, terrified hriek, and dropping down on his knees, and clasping his head with his hands, began to beg upon them; and for a few minutes a scene of the wildest confusion prevailed.

'Fool!' cried Amos Stanforth, Peleg's guardian, who reached him first—and who, seizing him by the collar of his hunting shirt, jerked him to his feet, and shook him till all the teeth in his head rattled; 'Fool, coward; what d'ye mean by making all this here fuss for nothing?' By this time Peleg had become fairly awak-ened; and as he feared his guardian in anger, almost as much as he did the savages themselves, he slunk away without uttering a word in hi

But further sleep for any of the parties after Eden, "for I have not yet been home. 'Here, Peleg,' he continued, turning to the young man before mentioned, who, with blanched features, open-mouth, dilated eyes, and trembling limbs, stood listening to every word, and looking from

I must explain this matter to uncle before I go home, for you know how slow he is to act till everything is understood.'

Saying this, Eden turned from Mabel Duncan to his kinsman and resumed:

The only departure of steamers yesterday was the steamer "H.D. trated Counterfeit Detector for 1856, he Newcomb," for New Orleans.

The St. Louis Intelligencer of Monday says: On Friday night, the weather turned suddenly cold, and Saturday was the coldest day of the cold, and Saturday was the coldest day of the season. Boats that were advertised to leave for points on the Illinois and Upper Mississippi on Saturday, took down their signs, paid off their crews, and came to the conclusion to suspend States, and especially throughout the western who is a "traveled man," and whose ing for the present. On Saturday, the Alton packets made their accustomed trips, not, however, without a great deal of trouble and danger. The Elvira, too, arrived from Chester about noon, and left again in the evening. There were several departures for New Orleans and the Ohio river, and all the boats were anxious to get away before the river closed entirely. Yesterday away before the river closed entirely. Yesterday there was not an arrival from any quarter, and the probability is that there will be none to-day. During all of yesterday, the river opposite the city was filled with ice almost from one shore to the other, which moved sluggishly down, apparently waiting an opportunity to come to a halt and, form a gorge, that will effectually prevent all boats from going out or coming in. The Cincinnati Commercial of yesterday says: Our readers, of course, are aware from our previous report, that navigation is suspended here. Yesterday morning intelligence reached us that the ice had gorged at "Four Mile," but at dark heavy masses commenced floating by the wharf, indicating that the gorge had given away.

Up to noon, the river had receded from ten to twelve inches, but in the evening it was rising rapidly, a sure sign of a gorge below. To-day there will not be over six feet full in the channel to Louisville. The Caledonia, from Maysville, is the last arrival from above. She worked through the ice with difficulty, arriving at an early hour vesterday morning.

DR. ROBACK'S SCANDINAVIAN REMEDIES .- In back's advertisement, we have no hesitation in saying that all he claims for his medicines is con-firmed by certificates from all parts of the west The language of these certificates is so earnest and grateful, and the cures refer to such a variety of diseases, that it would be folly to question the restorative properties of the preparations. It appears that while botanizing among his native mountains, in Sweden, during a visit to that country some years ago, he collected a large quantity of rare medicinal herbs, unknown in that country of rare medicinal herbs, unknown in the liquids and this country, and by combining the liquids and this country, and by combining the liquids and gent properties, he succeeded in producing his celebrated Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, which curatives in existence. Dr. Roback's theory is, that all diseases originate in the blood, and it would seem that the rapid recovery of his patients, under a course of these disinfectants, affords strong presumptive evidence that his pathology is correct. Certain it is that the celepathology is correct. Certain it is that the cele-brity of his medicines increases daily, and that he has authentic proofs of their success in his possessions. XXXIV CONGRESS-SECOND SESSION. Tnesday's Proceedings Concluded.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 SENATE —On motion of Mr. Seward, a resolution was adopted requesting the President to communicate, if not incompatible with the pubic interests such information as he may have concerning the present condition, and prospects celebrated Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, which furnish any information not heretofore communicated, relative to the pay and emoluments of Lineut. General Scott or his staff, under the resonant control of the fluids of the human body than any other lution of February, '55.

The Senate considered the House bill for the settlement of claims of officers of the the revolutionary army and the widows and children of ose who died in the service. Mr. Evans opposed the amendment, as it might delay if not defeat the bill. Mr. Toombs and Stuart opposed it, viewing

Pierce, who would receive about $16,000 for revothat they adjourn to Mrnday.

House.—Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, from the and fortification appropriating bills. The House Navigator's is misnamed The report is volumpassed Senate joint resolution extending the time injury and contains much valuable information passed Senate joint resolution extending the time during which the creditors of the late Republic of Texas shall present their claims to January 1st, 1858, and repealing so much of the act of August, 1856, as provides that the residue, about r hundred thousand dollars, of the sum thereby appropriated shall be divided prorata among ors who have filed their releases. Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, in moving the House to go into Committee of the Whole on the Indian Appropriation bill, said it was very important that it should pass speedily, as it contained an appropriation for carrying out the treaty with the Creeks and Seminoles, made in August last. Mr. Maxwell trusted the bill would be considered, as Florida was now engaged in Indian difficulties. There had been no better prospect for the last twenty years than at this time for closing the war. Under this treaty the Creeks and Sem inoles, who have emigrated West, are to be employed in order to bring it to a termination.

Mr. Quitman had a bill to report from the Military Committee giving increased compensa-tion to keep officers of the Army from starving. Unless it passed, the best portion of the Army would be disbanded. Therefore, he remarked, it was equally important as measures suggested gentlemen from Ohio.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Indian, Military Academy, and invalid pension appropriations bills, which were subsequently passed and the House then adjourned. WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. Wednesday's Proceedings.

The Senate is not in session to-day, having adourned over till Friday.

Hours.—Mr. Campbell, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported the Postoffice, Mailteamer, and Deficiency appropriation bills. Mr. Phelps, from the same committee, reported, with amendments, the Senate bill relative to foreign coinage and the coinage of the new cent

Mr. Phelps explained that his object was to withdraw from circulation all depreciated foreign coin by receiving Mexican and Spanish quarters, eighths and sixteenths of a dollar, at twenty, ten. nd five cents respectively. The committee of Ways and Means propose that the President shall fix by proclamation a description of the new cent coin. The precedent was set in 1796.

Mr. Haven was fearful that the bill in its present form would disturb to a great extent the commarcial transactions of the country, as it posed a repeal of all laws making any foreign coins a legal tender. Mr. Phelps replied that it was the opinion of various gentlemen that no such law would affect the commercial value of foreign coins, however valuable. Several members appealed to Phelps to move

Mr. Phelps said he could not gratify them, say-ing that to do so would be sending it to the tomb

House—Query? Houston remarked that the coins of many foreign governments have, from ting. time to time, been made a legal tender, and it should be ascertained whether such laws have expired before this bill be pressed to final action. Mr. Jones, of Tenn., said the only way of in suring a fair investigation was to send the bill o the committee of the whole on the state of the

A CARD. THE person who helped himself to a portion of our Lockets, &c. one day last week, will please accept our acknowledgements for his kind consideration in leaving us such a fine assortment to show our customers. We would not make this public announcement were we not apprehensive that we would have no opportunity to do it privately; as we have waited several days and he has not called in to inform us in his success in disposing of them. We really hope he will pay us another visit, as we have a fine assortment on hand yet, and it takes so much of our time to show them, that it interferes with our Picture making. Fearing he may forget our address we give it in full, for his future refference.
